Annexation.

A spirited meeting of citizens was held in the Euclidian Society hall on Monday evening last, pursuant to the call of the Literary Committee of the above-named Society. Mr. Chas. W. M. Field presided, and after the reading of the minutes of the last meeting, by Mr. Hubbard, and a citation upon the same by Mr. Hubbard, an essay on sovereignty was read by Mr. Hubbard, who has had experience in civil engineering, and who, we are told, has devoted much time to the special study of drainage. His essay embodied a general plan for the sewerage of both Montclair and Bloomfield. The water courses of the Second and Third Rivers were designated as the natural conduits by which the territory was to be drained by means of subterranean sewers properly located and leading thereto.

Mr. P. W. Lyon then contributed some statistics showing the effect of annexation in Woodside. He stated that there had been, during three years, an advance in value of property of from 20 to 40 percent, the rate of taxation remaining about the same as before. The public improvements effected were 3 miles of streets graded, 2 miles of gas mains laid and 2 1/2 miles of water mains. There had been no sewers built. A commission, composed of residents outside of the limits of the former township had charge of the laying and grading of streets, the same being done in conformity with the plan of the city. There was a division of opinion among the residents, some having been appointed with the results of annexation while others believed that good would result from it in time.

Mr. A. B. Reford gave some facts relating to the city, showing that property had advanced very rapidly in value, owing to public improvements made by the city owners. He showed that while the tax rate ranged from $1.68 to $1.87, during four years, property values had gone up considerably, the average advance being over $500,000 per year.

Mr. F. C. Bliss then made the opening speech on the question, "Should we seek annexation?" He was inclined to take the negative, thinking we would do better to "leave the life we have than fly to others we know not of." He spoke of the dangers resulting from consolidation of power, referring to New York and other places which had suffered from combinations of dishonest men. Speaking of incompetency in the management of public affairs, he thought that self-sufficiency among men as to their capability of governing themselves and others was too common a trait. His remarks were in the main opposed to annexation.

Mr. Coll J. Turner spoke chiefly in favor of annexation. He considered the advantage we would gain from the credit of the larger city, when we came to make improvements to be of considerable account. He also favored annexation because it seemed impossible to have proper street improvements under our town government as now constituted. It would be difficult for us to have a Town Committee capable of laying out property uninfluenced by personal interest, or undisturbed by relationship or other ties. The system of streets and grades as adopted could not be otherwise than a broken or interrupted one. By annexation we should have a complete system of lines and grades, with due regard to the important matter of drainage. Our experience the past year or two plainly showed the difficulty of making any improvements under the new law of which there had been such earnest hopes. The Town Meeting voted $10,000 for streets one year and then the next tied the hands of the Committee with an appropriation of $250.

Mr. E. S. Wilde followed the last speaker. He spoke of the manner in which improvements were made in Newark, calling attention to the fact that the expenses were borne exclusively by the property benefited, and were paid in one installment. In respect to annexation, the question was whether it should be immediate or at some time in the future. He regarded it certain that sooner or later we would be in Newark, but just now it was a political impossibility. The important question then came up, what should be our policy in the meantime? There was certainly no hindrance to owners of property in Bloomfield from having all the improvements they wanted. We had a special law passed for this purpose, and all that was necessary to secure street improvements was for property owners to petition for them. It rested entirely with the owners to say whether they should have the street in front of them improved or not. The point made was that the laws and power of the present town authorities were adequate for the township's need. While Mr. Wilde was speaking he was reminded that the allotted ten minutes had expired.

Mr. J. C. Beach then arose and said he would go on where the last speaker left off. He proceeded first in defense of the Township Committee against an uncalculated misrepresentation which had led the people astray in regard to the Improvement Law and the action of the Committee under its provisions. He stated, in substance, that the news papers must be in great need of news to print when such erroneous articles were published. It was obligatory on the Committee to have made a map of the existing township; it was left to them, in their discretion, to make a second survey and map of blocks, grades &c. The first map had been made, in strict accordance with the law. The committee had invited petitions to be sent in for improvements under the law but none had been received, clearly indicating that the people thought their taxes now were sufficiently high without adding to them burdensome assessments. Therefore the committee had not felt called upon to go ahead with the mapping, blocking, &c., contemplated in the second section. He hoped people would read the law and become correctly informed and thus avoid misconception. Speaking of annexation, he was astonished at the idea that Bloomfield, 5 or 6 miles from Newark was going to be benefited by annexation. The Road Board Avenues were of more benefit to Newark than to Bloomfield. He thought that the statistics furnished killed the whole project of annexation. The people of Rosedale and Woodside only received benefit from improvements made when they put their hands in their pockets and paid for them.

An inquiry was made if the Town Committee have power to lay a sidewalk on Glenwood Avenue. Mr. Beach stated that the Town Committee had no control over that street, it being under the jurisdiction of a Commission. He also explained the working of our sidewalk law, and showed that under its provisions any property owner could build his sidewalk and oblige his neighbors on either side to put down theirs.

Mr. Pease who was interested in having a walk on Glenwood Avenue, wanted to know how long the "Wassessing Land Patch" was to have control of our streets. This was stated by Mr. Beach to be limited to five years from the time the Commission was legalized.

Mr. W. D. Foulke then took the floor and proceeded to discuss briefly the question which was properly before the meeting saying there had been a great deal of indiscriminate talk about the "Town Committee" the "Wassessing Land Patch," &c. He said that statistics had been read but they proved nothing or rather anything. They have shown tonight that property has gone up 40 percent in some instances and gone down 40 percent in others. By annexation, he thought we would become an indefinite part of a grand something which we could not control. He made a strong argument against the almost inevitable corruption of large corporations. He also concurred with Mr. Beach that the people of the township are themselves responsible for not having improvements.

Mr. Moore, of the Euclidian Society, made an explanation in reference to an erroneous impression which had gone abroad respecting the motives of the society in calling these meetings. The meetings had been proposed for the benefit of the citizens, and to increase public interest in the discussion of these affairs. The Society was not committed to nor working in the interest of any particular plan of improvements.

Mr. J. D. Reford made a short but pointed speech, in which he referred to the rapid growth and prosperity of West End and Wassessing, which was attributed to the united efforts of property owners in making improvements. He thought that Legislative enactments were of no account, except where efforts were made to put them in practice. He held that every man was called upon to make the best use of his property, to the advancement not only of his own personal interests, but to the moral advantage and general welfare of the community.

One further remark was made by Mr. Holden and Mr. Beach, respecting application for Telford pavement, which had been in contemplation during last summer.

Mr. Jenkins offered a resolution of thanks to the Society for affording the opportunity to the citizens for the discussion of these matters. The resolution was heartily adopted.

On motion of Mr. Foulke, it was decided to request another meeting, at an early day. It was referred to the Literary Committee with power to call such meeting.

Theodore Thomas' Concerts.

A grand musical treat is in store for those who, next Tuesday evening, attend the Theodore Thomas Concert in Newark. It is to come off in the Industrial Institute and will be the first of a series of three Subscription Concerts. The price of tickets for the Series is $3, including reserved seat. The subscription sheet is now open at Dennis' Book Store 739 Broad Street. Tickets to 50 cents extra, can be had by application as above. The leading attractions at the first concert will be the singing by Miss Emma Cranch, the young American Prima Donna.

The names of delinquent tax payers are to be returned to the Town Committee for publication in the annual report on Monday next. Collector Campbell will receive taxes at Justice Hall's office during Saturday, in order to give a final opportunity for payment to those who do not care to have their names so printed.

The Recent Meeting.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE RECORD:

I would like to say something through your paper in favorable criticism of the public meeting held last Monday night to debate Bloomfield's policy in regard to annexation. The animated and profitable discussion was kept up until after 10 o'clock, so late, indeed, that no time was left for taking a decision upon the question. But the most earnest advocates of annexation must admit that the prevailing sentiment of our community is adverse to the project, and that a full and free discussion has plainly revealed its inexpediency, at least for some time to come. Bloomfield will doubtless go into Newark one of these days, when the mutual interests of each community become assimilated, and therefore demand it. In the meantime we must paddle our own canoe, and let us wisely adopt such a policy as will best contribute to our present and future welfare.

I have noticed with pleasure that THE RECORD, in publishing reports of our meetings, gives the substance of what is said on all sides, but discreetly refrains from mixing up in such reports editorial opinion. This is journalistic and commendable. I have heard your policy in this respect favorably compared with that of another editor, who has a fatality for "putting his foot in" at every opportunity, and an unfortunate habit of publishing garbled reports, interlarded with self-sufficient editorial comments by way of embellishment.

It was simple justice that the indulgence of this pernicious habit should be rebuked at the recent meeting, when several gentlemen felt obliged to speak in refutation of the misrepresentations that had thus been made in regard to our "town affairs." It would seem that pig-headedness and a singular weakness for making trouble has received a healthy lesson. At any rate, the erroneous idea harped upon so much of late that the Town Committee have been squandering the people's money, hindering improvement, etc., has now been exploded. The Chairman of the Committee is fairly entitled to the thanks of all right-minded citizens for the clear and able manner in which he placed before the meeting the facts in regard to our sidewalk and street improvement laws—showed what really had been done; what could and could not be done under those enactments.

Mr. C. J. Turner, although he had been repeatedly and grossly attacked in the columns of the paper referred to, did not notice it; but, treating his maligner with contempt, confined himself rigidly and with true manliness to the affirmative side of the question in the discussion of which he was the pioneer. We ought certainly to feel obliged to him for doing so. The debate he inaugurated has drawn out much valuable information, bearing not only upon Annexation, but many other concerns relating to village welfare and improvement.

The speeches made by several other gentlemen might be alluded to in detail, as contributing to this very profitable conference upon village affairs, but I fear my article is already of sufficient length. I will say, in conclusion, that I hope the discussions that have so auspiciously begun will be continued until we hit exactly upon what is our policy. I am inclined to think it tends toward that of adopting a borough charter, instead of the old-time Town Committee government as at present.

Bloomfielder.

Flanking Jersey City.

Strong exertions are being made, principally on the part of interested parties outside of the State, to pass the bill now before the Legislature for bridging the Kill Van Kull, by which it is hoped to make a railway connection, over a suspension bridge, from Constable's Hook, N. J. to New Brighton, Staten Island. This, it will be seen, secures a New York terminus for foreign and coasting trade. The New York Times, a day or two ago, published an article in advocacy of the project, and clearly indicated the interest felt in this "rapid transit" scheme. Speaking of the lack of interest, of Jersey men in the project, the Times rather unkindly says: "They look upon the bridge project simply as a scheme to deprive the State of a railway terminus that belongs to it as naturally as do mosquitoes and the ague." Such being the case, the interest of New Jersey is to make the best possible use of the advantages naturally inherited by her. Therefore it seems to be inadvisable for us to favor a project which clearly diverts our commercial advantages.

This bridge project, under such zealous espionage on the part of the Gothamites, looks like an attempt to starve off the manifest destiny of Jersey City's water front to be the means of building up that Great American City of the future we heard about in a town meeting a few nights ago.

Mabel Association.

One of the most pleasant and noteworthy socialities of the season was the Mabel Association reception, held at the house of David Oakes, Esq., Friday evening, 12th inst. The affair did great credit to the young men having it in charge. The attendance comprised about forty couples. Most of the ladies appeared charmingly, the toilettes being both rich and tasteful. The music was beyond criticism—"perfectly elegant." Each guest brought a cheerful face and pleasant smile, every one, apparently, doing their utmost to contribute to each other's enjoyment. The general expression at leave-taking was one of entire satisfaction and sincere commendation.

Assembly—No. 182.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An Act to authorize the inhabitants of the township of Bloomfield, in the county of Essex, to vote by ballot at their town meetings," approved February eighteenth, one thousand eight hundred and forty-six.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That at the next annual town meeting, to be held in the township of Bloomfield, in the county of Essex, and at all subsequent town meetings to be held in said township, no ballot that may be cast at any such election shall contain the names of more than four persons to serve as members of the township committee of said township, and any ballot that contains the names of more than four persons as aforesaid, shall not be counted, and shall be void, and of no effect so far as the election of a township committee for said township is concerned, but shall be treated and counted as though it did not contain the names of any person or persons to serve upon said committee, but the whole number to be elected shall remain seven as heretofore.

2. And be it enacted, That from and after the passage of this act the members of the township committee of said township shall not receive any compensation for their services directly or indirectly from said township or otherwise.

3. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act, be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Town Committee Proceedings.

The meeting of Feb. 12 was devoted chiefly to auditing accounts, pending the closing up of the present fiscal year. Certified bills for almshouse supplies, amounting in the aggregate to $1,227, were ordered paid. Bills paid and charged to Contingent Account—J. J. Archdeacon, $75. Commissioners of Appeal, $12. Town Committee, $560; J. F. Folsom $40.55; W. K. Williamson, $50.

On motion, an appropriation of $800 was made for payment on account for street-lighting. A communication from Z. B. Dodd, complaining of the condition of the cross walk at the corner of State and Liberty streets was received and read.

A resolution was offered and unanimously passed, protesting, in the name of the people of Bloomfield, against the passage of an act now before the Legislature known as Assembly Bill No. 182, which changes the mode of holding the township elections of Bloomfield.

New Jersey Legislature.

It is stated that the State Fishery Commissioners will apply to the Legislature for an appropriation of $4,500, to be expended in the hatching of fish in the waters of the State.

A supplement to the Mechanic's lien law has been introduced which provides that in case a mortgage of any tract or lot of land upon part of which any building may be hereafter erected shall release any part of such premises from the lien and operation of the mortgage and such release shall result in lessening the security of the lien that any contractor, workman or laborer would have been furnished for work done or materials furnished, the lien of such mortgage shall be postponed to the lien provided for and secured to such contractor, to an amount which shall be equal to the pro rata increased lien upon the unreleased part of such tract or lot of land whereon such buildings may be erected, resulting from such release.

An act of incorporation of the Essex Sewerage Co. has been introduced. The incorporators are Chas. T. B. Kepp, George D. G. Moore, G. J. Everett, Henry D. Gould, Elias O. Doreau, and John M. Reuek with a capital stock of $50,000 and power to increase to $250,000. They are to manufacture fertilizers from sewage, and for that purpose any City, Borough, Township or corporation shall have power to make contracts with the company for allowing them to take sewage.

Mr. Potts has introduced a bill for the appointment of three commissioners to provide a system for greater uniformity and accuracy in surveys. The commissioners are required to establish a correct triangulation, and to cause to be surveyed and established branch lines running through every township of the State—such lines to be properly monumented by stone monuments at each and every angle, &c.

A supplement to the act to prevent the burning of woods, marshes and meadows provides that if any person shall burn or smoke out any squires, or any animal or species of game whatever, in any woods, forests, marshes or meadows, on other land belonging to any other person or corporation, or if he originates from any such burning or smoking as aforesaid, by any person whatever, such person so offending shall on conviction pay a fine of $100 or be imprisoned for twelve months.

Mr. Taylor has introduced a bill authorizing an election of six trustees in School District No. 8, in Montclair.

Mr. Dodd introduced a supplement to Orange which provides that the Common Council shall create two or more election districts within any ward having over 800 voters and for that purpose may alter by ordinance the boundaries of any district or districts previously created. Such districts are to be distinguished by numbers and the Clerk of Orange shall file with the Clerk of Essex the boundaries of the districts as formed. It gives power to make arrangements with West Orange for the use of the fire department in case of need. In district No. 1, the assessor and judges of election shall constitute the Board of Election, in the remaining districts the board shall consist of a chairman and two judges.

The supplement to Belleville, relative to the adjustment of taxes with Franklin, and for other purposes, was amended by Mr. Taylor so as to provide that the town committee shall not have control of Washington avenue so far as it is now controlled by the Essex Road Board. It was then ordered to a third reading.

Town Matters.

Good skating almost anywhere.

Candidates for town offices are coming to the fore.

Ann Nextation had a serious fall on Monday night.

Mr. V. G. Thomas left town last Saturday for Florida.

Our plumbers are still busy thawing out frozen pipes.

A timely hint—wear a cabbage-leaf in your hat; it's a sure preventive of sun-stroke.

Bill has gone to Trenton—Minority Bill. He expects to return to Bloomfield on March 8th.

The anxious inquiry among Republicans is—Who is the father of that naughty son—Minority Bill?

The M. E. people will give their annual Sunday School Exhibition on next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of next week.

Duncan Howell's once grassy croquet ground on the Park has been transformed into a glassy glare of ice, which the boys use for a skating rink.

The West End Union Prayer Meeting, which was announced for Tuesday evening last, was postponed until this (Friday) evening at the house of Mr. C. M. Lellan, on Midland avenue.

A bad boy in school recently set everybody in the room shivering and demoralizing things generally by icing the thermometer. The mercury could not be coaxed higher than 38° and school was dismissed for the day.

Notwithstanding the dull times, the proprietor of the Bloomfield Surprise has renewed his lease and will soon lay in a choice Spring stock. In the meantime he advertises goods now on hand at extremely low figures. Read his advertisement.

On Tuesday evening of next week the First and Westminster Presbyterian Churches will unite in a Praise Meeting to be held at the old church under the leadership of Mr. La Fayette Sykes of Newark. Services to commence at 7 o'clock. A cordial invitation is extended to all desiring to attend.

The annual election of officers in the Hope Chapel Sunday School was held last Sunday afternoon, resulting as follows: Superintendent, J. F. Seymour; Asst. Supt. A. S. Friesell; Secretary and Treasurer of Missionary Society E. W. Baldwin; Librarians, J. M. Walker and E. W. Morris.

Our citizens who have houses to rent would do well to place them in the hands of S. A. Murden & Co., who have already effected rentals upon all the first-class houses in their charge. Several applications have been made from parties from the city, in quest of places, and leases could have been secured if houses were on their books and could be shown.

New Church Enterprise.

The Catholics of Bloomfield have bought the L. Courter property on Bloomfield avenue, near Liberty street, and intend soon to build a church at a cost of $7,000. Over $1,000 has been subscribed since Sunday, and 12 persons have offered to loan $2,000, free of interest, for one year, in order that the church in which they are interested may go up.

Something New and Novel!

The Ladies of the M. E. Church and congregation will hold a Pound Sociable at the residence of Mr. Chas. P. Ross, Bloomfield Ave. on this (Friday) evening, Feb. 19th. During the evening useful articles done up in pound packages will be sold at auction, the buyer not knowing what he is purchasing. An enjoyable time is anticipated.

A Query.

Has the bottom fallen out of "Adam Mc Adam's ash-bin," and carried all the ashes in Bloomfield away with it? If not, why are the side-walks so very, exceedingly, extremely slippery?

"ENTER."

About 7:40 o'clock Wednesday morning a train on the Montclair railroad consisting of a locomotive and two passenger cars, neared the depot in Woodside on its way to New York, the last car ran off the track. The accident was caused by a broken rail. The car was dragged along upwards of an eighth of a mile to the consternation of the passengers, and was considerably damaged, though fortunately no one was hurt. It is stated that the engineer, conscious that something was wrong, was about to stop sooner than he did, when an excited passenger pulled the rope, which he received as a signal for him to go on.
